5

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a photomask comprising a substrate and a plurality of shielding patterns. The substrate comprising a plurality of shielding regions and a plurality of transparent regions, while each transparent region is disposed between two adjacent shielding regions and has one depression. The depression and the shielding region share a same edge and a sidewall of the depression is aligned with a sidewall of the shielding pattern.